RECEPTION AT CITY HALL.

The formal reception of President Grant in this city yesterday, was an event of unusual interest, and will long be remembered by the many thousands of citizens who witnessed it, thereby giving renewed evidence of their appreciation of the man for whom Allegheny county gave a majority of over eleven thousand votes.

The programme published in the GAZETTE of yesterday morning was carried out to the letter, and the arrangements were admirably made, so that nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the occasion in the slightest degree.

MEETING OF THE COMMITTEES.

The various Committees appointed at the meeting held at the Mayor's office Monday evening, met, as requested, yesterday morning, at ten o'clock, at the Mayor's office. Hon. J. K. Moorhead was called to the chair.

The Mayor announced his Police arrangements for the day perfected.

Several further reports of minor importance were heard, after which the meeting adjourned.

AT THE DEPOT.

At twelve o'clock, the gentlemen composing the Escort and Reception Committees met at the Mayor's office, where open carriages were in waiting to convey them to the Union depot, and on arriving there the crowd of people anxious to see the President had swollen to thousands, blocking up the streets in every direction for two or three squares. With considerable difficulty the Committee made their way to the depot, where they awaited the arrival of the special train which was to bring the President and his family.

FLANK MOVEMENT.

Soon after the arrival of the committee at the Depot, and some ten minutes before the train was due, a telegram was received and handed to the chairman, stating that the train was thirty minutes behind time and consequently would not arrive until half past three o'clock. This fact was announced to the thousands who had assembled in and around the depot, and created general dissatisfaction, as a large number of those present had been waiting for over an hour. Whether the announcement was prepared for the occasion or not, we are unable to say, but it enabled the President to execute one of his favorite movements in military tactics, as the crowd after hearing the announcement began to scatter, and in five minutes after the dispatch was read the special train came thundering into the depot. The President stepped out alone, and was not recognized by any one until he had passed nearly through the Depot, when General Moorhead, seeing him, quietly took charge of him and conducted him to a carriage, in which the President, General Moorhead, Mayor Brush and W. A. Tomlinson were conveyed to the Monongahela House, not only flanking the crowd, but the greater portion of the members of committees and the escort. The fact of his arrival, however, soon became generally known, and by the time the carriage in which he was seated had reached Penn street it was joined by the other carriages composing the escort, and preceded by a detachment of the Mayor's police and the Great Western band, the procession moved to the

MONONGAHELA HOUSE.

Here the President and party were received by the Committee of Reception and conducted to the rooms, where they were permitted to rest for a time. The President subsequently, accompanied by Major A. M. Brown and others of the Reception Committee, was conducted to a private parlor at the side of the hotel, where he was introduced to a large number of prominent citizens and ladies. The rush to see him was so great that it became necessary for the President to make himself visible to the crowd, and Major Brown announced that General Grant would appear on the east balcony, whereupon there was a general rush for the street. The President was then conducted to the balcony, where he was received with loud and prolonged cheers. The General could not be drawn into a speech, however, and raising his hat, thanked the crowd for their kindness and retreated to his room and shortly after to the dining table.

AT THE VOLKSFEST.

After dining the President, in a carriage, accompanied by Mayor Brush, Mayor Drum and Maj. A. M. Brown, accompanied by twelve other carriages, occupied by the Presidential party, Committees of Reception and members of the Press, proceeded to the Volksfest at Dr. Gross' grove, 17th Ward, a distance of four miles from the Monongahela House. On arriving at the grove, the President was taken out of the carriage, upon the stand, where there was a perfect rush and intense enthusiasm prevailing. The police, with great difficulty, succeeded in keeping the crowd back, and when quiet was restored, the President said:

Ladies and Gentlemen: It gives me great pleasure to visit your picnic in this beautiful grove. The name of Alexander Von Humboldt, the great German schclar, is well known to the world, and I join you in honoring this great man's memory. The Germans of the United States are an important and useful element in the population of this country. I thank yon for the enthusiasm you have displayed.

His brief remarks were received with prolonged applause and the immense concourse of people assembled there were wild with enthusiasm.

ANOTHER FLANK MOVEMENT.

It became evident to the committee having the President in charge that some strategy would be necessary to get him out of the crowd, which by this time had collected around the platform upon which he was standing by thousands. A part of the programme was to visit the residence of Dr. Gross, but unless the crowd could be avoided this was impossible. The President was at length conducted to his carriage, which was driven off alone in an opposite direction from the Doctor's house, and after getting clear of the immense throng of people, the house was reached by a circuitous route of four or five miles.

THE ENTERTAINMENT.

When the President arrived at Doctor Gross' residence, the party that had accompanied him to the Volksfest were there, and spread upon the beautiful lawn in front of the house was an excellent colation, of which the party partook, and after a rest of half an hour they returned to the city, passing through the Allegheny Cemetery, where another half hour was spent. From thence the Allegheny Commons were visited and the site of the Humboldt movement, after which the party returned to the Monongahela House for supper.

THE SERENADE.

At half past seven o'clock last evening the pioneer Grant Club in the United States, the Second Ward Club, serenaded the President at the Monongahela House. The Club, numbering one hundred and fifty men, fully equipped, met at Wilkins Hall, their headquarters, and preceded by the Germania Turner and Great Western bands, marched to Water street, by way of Smithfield, and, countermarching, formed in line in front of the Monongahela House, where the serenade took place. The President first made his appearance at one of the parlor windows, when the crowd on the streets, which numbered thousands, cheered lustily, and continued to cheer until he made his appearance on the balcony, when the enthusiasm of the delighted people knew no bounds. After quiet had been restored, Senator Scott, who accompanied the President, introduced him as follows:

Fellow Citizens; I have the honor this evening to introduce to you one who needs no introduction.—The President of the United States. [Prolonged cheering.]

When the cheering subsided the President said:

Gentlemen: I thank you for the very cordial and kind reception I have received from you, and by this city. All my visits to this city have been attended by the same spirit of kindness.

It is unnecessary for me to say more, as many of you cannot hear what I am saying.

The immense throng of people on the street cheered loudly, during which the General retired to his room.

AT CITY HALL.

The hour appointed for the public reception at City Hall having arrived, the President was conducted from his room to a carriage which was in waiting at the door, ready to convey him to the Hall. When the carriage was reached, which was done with great difficulty, owing to the great concourse of people collected in and about the hotel, and the President took his seat, he was greeted with three times three, after which the carriage and escort, the Second Ward Club, moved by the way of Smithfield street, Fifth avenue and Market street to City Hall, where the President was received by the following Committee appointed at an informal meeting of the Republican County Executive Committee, held at 10 o'clock A. M. yesterday, for that purpose: Messrs. T. M. Bayne, F. M. Magee, Jas. M. Murray, J. S. McKelvey, H. W. Oliver, Jr., W. G. McCune, A. L. Pearson, H. C. Mackrell, N. P. Reed, Evan Jones, James, McBrier, John Paul, John D. Fleming, Geo. Wilson, S. H. Geyer, H. H. McCormick, John S. Lambie, W. S. Robb, John Dalzell, R. B. Parkinson.

The Hall was tastefully decorated and admirably arranged for the occasion. The national colors, red, white and blue, were tastefully festooned on either side of the hall, from the gas burners, a beautiful arch, trimed with evergreens, from which shone out in blazing letters "Our Guest," was erected at the front of the stage, and just beneath this was a tempory stage or platform enclosed with railings, elegantly carpeted and furnished with splendid chairs, which was kindly furnished for the occasion by T. B. Young & Co., Smithfield street, and a silver water pitcher, salver and goblets, furnished by C. P. Roberts, 15 Fifth avenue. On arriving at the Hall, it was found impracticable for the President to go in at the front or main entrance, in consequence of the mass of human beings assembled at that point, and he was taken to the private entrance where he was met by the Committee and conducted to the temporary platform, arranged for him. A large number of ladies who had previously entered the Hall were then presented to the President and shaking hands passed out, after which the doors were thrown open and the crowd rushed in. The door at the rear of the Hall was thrown open, and as the crowd passed, after shaking hands with the President, they were required to move out to make room for others. In this way the masses continued to pass in at one door, shaking hands with the President, and out at another for over an hour, most of which time the President was on his feet. After fully five thousand persons had passed through the Hall and shaken hands with him, he became too much exhausted to stand longer and was compelled to stop the hand shaking, taking a seat at the rear of the inclosure, where he sat for fifteen or twenty minutes longer, the crowd during this time passing more rapidly than before. In order to have a better view of the people as they passed the President was provided with a seat on the main stage in the Hall room, after which the crowd inside became so dense that egress for the time was impossible. The police endeavored to clear the doors and get the crowd in motion again, but to no purpose.

At this point Col. Joe Brown called upon the "Tanners" of Allegheny county for three cheers for the original "Tanner," the President of the United States, which was heartily responded to.

A move was made towards closing the reception and getting the President out of the Hall, when the crowd called for a speech, and continued to call until the President addressed them as follows.

Gentlemen—I don't know how to thank you for this kind reception. It is much easier to come and see than to go through it. I bid you good night.

Prolonged cheering followed, during which the President was conducted to the carriage, escorted back to the hotel, and the grand ovation ended.

THE PRESIDENT'S PARTY.

The President's party on the special train from Altoona to this city, consisted of President Grant, and wife and two children: General Horace S. Porter, Military Secretary; Hon. John Scott, U. S. Senator; J. D. Cameron, Springer Harbaugh. J. McC. Creighton, —— Riley, Hon. D. J. Morrell and daughter, Hon. John Covode and wife, Gen. C. P. Markle, S. F. Barr, W. S. Purviance, and the correspondent of the New York Herald.

General Grant and family will leave the city at ten o'clock this morning in private carriages for Washington, Pa., to visit Mr. William Smith and family, where they will remain for a week or ten days.

He was held in $50,000 to appear before the U. S. Court on Wednesday.

HUMBOLDT.

CENTENNIAL TRIBUTE.

Science, Literature and Art Honoring Departed Greatness.

A HUNDRED YEARS IN REVIEW.

Homage to the Genius of the Century.

THE HUMBOLDT CENTENNIAL YESTERDAY.

Procession, Music, Orations, Festivities.

When, some weeks ago, a few gentlemen met together to consider the propriety of celebrating the centennial anniversary of the birth of Baron Alexander Von Humboldt, they hoped to be able to make a demonstration which would be equal to anything of the kind ever before attempted here, but their imagination, in its wildest flights, did not approach anything equal to what those few notes of preparation culminated in. The demonstration of yesterday, taking it in all its parts, has never been equalled in Allegheny county. The concert, the procession, the Masonic demonstration, the Volksfest, the visit of the Chief Magistrate, all were excellent, just as Humboldt in all the departments of science attained excellence. New York, Chicago and Philadelphia had their Humboldt celebrations yesterday, but none of them surpassed or even equalled our own. Even without taking into account the eclat which the festival received from the presence of the party of distinguished guests, it was pronounced a success, and we congratulate the committees upon the result of their efforts.

THE OPENING OMENS.

The sun rose beautifully yesterday morning, and dispelled with its favoring smiles all anxiety for the weather. Throughout the day a cool and pleasant breeze played gently through the streets, which mitigated the heat, which otherwise might have been oppressive. In response to request, flags and streamers were floating from many of the public and private buildings, which gave to the cities a brilliant appearance, and added to the attractions and splendor of the occasion. The people began at an early hour to manifest their interest by crowding the main thoroughfares with happy throngs of the old and the young, clad in holiday attire, and all bent in doing honor to the memory of departed genius.

The first feature of the day's exercises which commanded attention was which formed in the appointed order. Great preparations had been made for this part of the demonstration, and the efforts thus put forth were rewarded by a large and handsome turn-out in full character with the remainder of the proceedings. Bands of music and marching of companies here and there through the streets indicated the forming of the several divisions. About half-past nine o'clock all were in line and the procession moved in the following order from the grand rendezvous at the corner of Grant street and Seventh avenue:

Sixteen carriages containing the Mayor and members of the Select and Common Councils, of Allegheny, members of the Allegheny Park Commission and citizens.

The different organizations carried flags and wore appropriate badges and uniforms.

THE ROUTE.

The procession moved along Grant street to Seventh avenue, down Seventh avenue to Smithfield street, along Smithfield street to Fifth avenue, along Fifth avenue to Market street, thence by Sixth street to Suspension bridge, up Federal street to Ohio, along Ohio street to the Penitentiary, and thence to the ground.

Along the line the procession was greeted by every evidence of enthusiasm, in waiving handkerchiefs, and fluttering flags, and hearty cheers. This display was particularly observable on Fifth avenue and Federal street, where the decorations were of a creditable character.

AT THE GROUND.

The scene was inspiring and beautiful in the extreme. In anticipation of the procession and crowd, large numbers had availed themselves of the first opportunity to secure good positions for witnessing the ceremonies, and the space about the foundation of the monument, was crowded to such an extent that with great difficulty the police opened a passage, for the approach of the members of the Masonic Order. A throng of ladies, numbering fully eight hundred occupied the Ladies' Tribune, and presented a spectacle surpassingly brilliant and beautiful. Fortunately the Tribune was solidly constructed, else it must have given way under the great weight to which it was subjected. Others who were unable to obtain seats, crowded around the space between the structure and the stand, which though but a few feet in width, was made to contain a surprisingly large number of people. The vast crowd who gathered with the procession, for the most part found their places occupied and were content to look on at a distance, or walk around the lovely park, which never seemed to better advantage. The green grass, scenery, lakes, and flowing fountains sending up their sparkling jets afforded some idea of the elegance of the improvement.

A beautiful open temple had been erected over the foundation of the monument. The four posts and arches were entwined, with evergreens, while festoons of the same passed from corner to corner. From the centre of this temple hung a beautiful moss basket. The decorations were completed by small flags, representing the nationalities of the United States, Austria, England and the North German Confederation, fluttering from all sides, while from a flagstaff, run up directly over the center, floated a magnificent specimen of our nation's emblem. Inside the temple, surrounding the foundation, were seated the officiating Masonic officers, dressed with appropriate regalias and bearing symbols of the order.

Beside the Temple of the West, was erected the speaker's platform, and on the western and southern sides of this were the platforms for the singers and musicians.

THE CORNER STONE LAYING.

Sometime since the foundation for the monument, was in readiness to receive the corner stone, which lay at the foot of a block and tackle rigging, ready for being placed in position. Messrs. J. P. & R. H. Knox had the honor of performing the work. A copper case furnished by H. H. Demmler, containing the documents was placed in the cavity in the stone, which had been prepared to receive it.

When the head of the procession reached the West Common, the members of the Masonic fraternity formed in open order, when the officers of Lodge 45 passed through the lines, the brethren uncovered, and entered within the enclosure surrounding the monument foundation. Mr. James Finlay, Marshal of Lodge 45, called silence, and announced the following officers: D. D. G. M. A. M. Pollock, W. M.; Wm. Little, S. W., J. W. Mackrell, J. W.; C. C. Arensberg, Treasurer; M. Winterhausen, Secretary; Rev. J. J. McIlvar, Chaplain; James Finlay, Marshal; David Glass, S D.; Thomas J. Moore, J. D.; Joseph Chadwick and John R. Walter, Masters o Ceremonies; Isaac Broom and Robert Andrews, Stewards; William Noble, Peer, Chas. F. Porter, Tyler. These gentlemen were appointed officers of Lodge 45, pro tem, but are W. Masters of the different Lodges in this District. The officers then took the positions assigned them: as soon as order was restored a "Dedicatory Symphony" was rendered by the Great Western Band and the members of the German singing societies. The Symphony was composed by Mr. Harry Kleber, who wielded the baton on the occasion. The music was given with splendid effect.

Order was then called by D. D. G. M., Pollock, the Chaplain, when Chaplain McIlyar, made the following

OPENING PRAYER.

We come before Thee, Thou Great and Eternal God and Father, maker of worlds and ruler of men, to offer to Thee our admiration and praise, our prayers and thanksgiving. We pray Thee to bless the work now begun, with the corn of strength, the wine of refreshment, and the oil of joy. We implore Thee to bless the great brotherhood of Free Masonry, here and everywhere, and give to it unity, harmony and prosperity. Bless mankind with thy love and mercy. We ask Thee of Thy great mercy to preserve and protect us and them, and have compassion for those who suffer, and be the God of the widow and the fatherless. Be pleased to teach us our work that we and all men may ever revere Thy holy name, and obey Thy Divine law, so that in all our labors we may have respect to those in authority over us, as they and we are accountable to Thee, the only wise God, blessed forever. Look down from heaven, Thy dwelling place, O Thou who created the earth and the sea, the sun, moon and stars, pour out upon this fraternity of men like blessings which aforetime Thou didst upon our fathers. O Thou omniscient, omnipotent and omnipresent God, hear us, be with us, and grant us Thy salvation. And when we shall have ended our labors on earth, may Thou, O Father of Light and Love, who art plenteous in mercy, guide us up to Thy throne, that we may with those, who in white raiment and crowns of glory, with harps in their hands, sing the songs of joy and deliverance and redemption, throughout the endless ages of eternity. Amen.

A trained choir under the leadership of Prof. W. H. Slack, next sang the "Masonic Anthem:"

In every clime, from age to age,
Masons performed their mystic rite,
Craftsmen, scholar, poet, sage,
Met and beheld Masonic light.

Then ask of God his choicest blessing,
That Mason's work may perfect be,
And Masonry, such heart possessing,
The Craft may dwell in unity.

Marshal Finlay now called silence, after which Senior Warden Little, accompanied by C. Meyran, Esq., Chairman of the Building Committee, advanced towards the District Deputy Grand Master, and said: Rt. Worshipful Sir—I have now the pleasure to present to you the Chairman of the Committee having in charge the erection of this Monument to the memory of Baron Von Humboldt.

Mr. Meyran said: Rt. Worshipful Sir: The Chairman of the Committee charged with the duty of preparing the Corner Stone, and making the arrangements for its being laid, have completed their labors. It is now ready, Rt. Worshipful Sir, to be made the foundation stone of this Monument.

The following invocation was next offered by Chaplain McIlyar:

Supreme Architect of heaven and earth, we render Thee our thanksgiving and praise for the Masonic order, its establishment and its prosperity, and as members of which we are now assembled to praise Thee and magnify Thy holy name. Teach us, we pray Thee to feel and know our dependence on Thee always, that by all our works, begun, continued and ended in Thee, we may give Thee glory, for Thou art Jehovah, our Father and our God. And O, as Thou didst aforetime appear unto Thy servant, Moses, in a flame of fire, out of the midst of a bush, enkindle, we beseech Thee, in our hearts, a flame of true devotion and reverence for Thee, brotherly kindness to each other, and of charity to all mankind. And now to Thee, King Eternal, the only wise God, be both honor and glory from everlasting to everlasting. Amen.

The members of the order responded: Amen, so mote it be, Amen.

WHAT IT CONTAINED.

After the invocation, D. D. G. M, Pollock directed the Treasurer, Mr. C. C. Arensberg, to place the articles, small silver coins, etc., in the box, and put them in the corner stone. This was done, and after the box had been hermetically sealed, and placed in position in the corner stone, the Secretary, by direction of D. D. G. M., announced that the following articles had been enclosed:

The first annual report of the Allegheny Park Commissioners; annual reports of the Committees of the Select and Common Councils of the city of Allegheny; By-Laws of Lodge 45, A. Y. M., 1868. Pittsburgh GAZETTE, Chronicle, Commercial, Dispatch, Post, Freiheits Freund, Volksblatt, Republikaner, Allegheny Blatter, Burbner Stube, Presbyterian Banner, Catholic, Leader, Sunday and Daily Republic, Mirror, Mail, United Presbyterian, Christian Advocate, Leisure Hours, Manuscripts in German and English, containing a recital of the proceedings in conection with the monument from its beginning; medallion of Humboldt, programme of Concert, copy of Masonic ceremonies, a badge, photograph of monument, bottle of wine (miniature), Dr. Meinertzhazen's oration some small pieces of American coin, cable dispatch from Prof. Blaeser, of Berlin, about the bronze bust, photograph map of Pittsburgh in 1795, fractional currency of the year, a poem on Humboldt, by Karl Reuber, H. Kleber symphony, poem by Rev. C. Weitershausen.

D. D. G. M. Pollock then addressed the Senior Warden: "It is my will and pleasure that the Corner Stone of the Monument be now laid. You will announce the same to the Junior Warden that he may announce it to the brethren, that all present may govern themselves accordingly."

The S. W. addressed the J. W.: "It is the R. W. D. D. G. M.'s will and pleasure that the Corner Stone of the Monument be now laid. You will announce the same to the brethren, that all present may govern themselves accordingly."

The Junior Warden said: Brethren, take notice, it is the R. W. D. D. G. M.'s will and pleasure that the corner stone of the monument in honor of the illustrious Baron Von Humboldt be now laid on this site. Brethren, you will therefore govern yourselves accordingly.

The R. W. D. D. G. M. then addressed the J. W.: Sir and Brother, you will see that the craftsmen have well and truly prepared this corner stone to be laid by me. Test it with the plumb and report to me if you are satisfied with the work of the craftsmen.

The Junior Warden now left his station with the plumb and proceeded to the stone, tested it, and said: Right Worshipful, I find the stone plumb, and the craftsmen have prepared the corner stone true and trusty.

The R. W. D. D. G. M., next addressed the S. W.: Brother Senior Warden, you will now examine and satisfy yourself if the craftsmen have worked well. Try the stone with the Level, and report to me the result of your examination.

A FRIEND WELCOMED.

BY ALFRED DE MUSSETT.

The joy of meeting makes us love farewell,
We gather once again around the hearth,
And thou wilt tell
All that thy keen experience has been
Of pleasure, danger, misadventure, mirth,
And unforseen.

And all without an angry word the while,
Or self-comparison—naught dost thou recall
Save for a smile.
Thou knowest how to lend good fortune grace,
And how to mock whate'er ill luck befall
With laughing face.

But, friend, go not again so far away;
In need of some small help I always stand,
Come whatso may:
I know not whither leads th's path of mine,
But I can tread it better when my hand
Is clasped in thine.

THE damage to the fruit crop in the vicinity of Boston, by the late storm, was very great. A NUMBER of letters were found in a New England postal car recently that had accidently slipped out of a drawer probably months before. A MICHIGAN householder found on his doorstep, the other day, a bag, which, on being opened, was found to contain a litter of kittens. A few days after a similar bundle was discovered in the same place, and immediately thrown into the river. The wife, actuated by feminine curiosity, fished out the package and found that it contained a once lively infant and a five dollar bill, with a note requesting that the child be brought up carefully.

THE Albany Argus reiterates the story that a young milliner in Washington county has fallen heir to $17,000,000, left her by a young Englishman who became enamored of her while traveling in this country. She has been promised $5,000,000 in December, and the balance as soon thereafter as possible. Miss Gray, the fortunate heiress, is said to be about thirty years of age. She has a mother and sisters to enjoy it with her.

IN ST. LOUIS last week Philip Hesdorfer was arrested for perjury, on complaint of his divorced wife, who alleges that in pursuance of a written agreement she went to Illinois and remained there for one year, having been led to believe the separation would be only temporary and for good reasons, but that upon her return she was amazed to learn she was no longer a wife, her husband having in the meantime, in order to obtain a divorce, sworn in open court that she had abandoned him and remained away from the State one year, without cause. In her absence he had been living with another woman.

THE Alta Californian quotes a statement by Senator Hendricks that there are as many as two thousand Chinamen born in California who will come of age within the next three or four years, and reports that: "It is a fact well known to pioneers that previous to the fall of 1862, there were not more than two or three Chinese women in the State, and previous to 1856 Chinese children were very few in number; even now there are very few Chinese women here who have children. Instead of 2,000 Chinese young men who were born here and will be 21 within three or four years, there are not one hundred."

MR. GEORGE FORBES, of Wheeling, W. Va., while on a visit to Wetzel county, recently, encountered a highwayman, who presented a cocked pistol and demanded his money or his life. He struck his horse, thinking the animal would spring before he could fire, but the robber was too quick for him and fired, the ball triking the point of his hip, disablin him. The scoundrel, at this juncture, became alarmed by some one approaching, fled to the woods, and was not seen again.

NELLIE CARPENTER, thirteen years of age, of Bridgewater, Vt., is a heroine. On the 27th ultimo, while playing on the bank of a pond, with three other little girls, one of them fell in and would have drowned but for her coolness and courage. Nellie first directed the two girls with her to run for some men, and then waded into the pond up to her chin, but failing in this way to get at the drowning girl, she procured a long pole, and after much exertion succeeded, just as the girl was sinking for the third time, in rescuing her.

A TELEGRAPH REPORTER on the Toledo division of the Lake Shore and Michigan Railroad, had occasion to ascend a tree on River street, Cleveland, in order to trim off some branches that were interfering with the wires. He had no sooner commenced operations than some Irish women came out of their shanties and commenced a regular siege upon the elevated repairer, who was just in the act of chopping off a large branch of the tree, which, it appears, greatly agitated the combatants. Rotton potatoes, eggs, sticks, cinders and stones were hurled at the intruder, who, amid deafening hoots and yells, was obliged to beat a hasty retreat, as the Bridgets were too much for him.

AT St. Clairsville, Ohio, on Monday of last week, Thomas D. Carr, under sentence of death for the murder of Louisa Fox, was found lying on his bed in a very weak condition, with the bed clothes and the floor of his cell covered with blood. He had obtained a needle, and, tying his left arm above the elbow tightly with a bandage, had opened a large vein in his arm. His arm was dressed by a physician, but about noon he tore off the bandages, and, with a pin used in the bandage, tore open the wound again and bled very freely before discovery. He has said from the beginning that he would not be hung. His case is now pending on writ of error before the Supreme Court of the State, and is not to be passed upon before December.

EPHRAIM CARPENTER, a farmer living near Sigourney, Iowa, committed suicide last week on account of a fear that his crops would be destroyed by the rain. On the morning of his death he arose from bed and after putting on his clothes, went to the door, finding that it had rained heavily during the night. He then returned, complaining that his oats crop would all be lost, and lay down across the foot of the bed, where he remained a short time, when he again arose and passed out through a shed room to the outside door. It is supposed that, as he passed out, he took a pistol from the clock-shelf unobserved by his wife, and seating himself on the door step, immediately fired, the ball entering the right temple and lodging behind the left eye.

AMONG the dusty archives of Bourbon county, Ky., there is a paper which reads as follows: "The Commonwealth of Virginia: To the Sheriff of Bourbon County, Greeting: We command you that you take Daniel Boone if he be found, and him safely keep, so that you have his body before our Justices at the Courthouse of said county, on the third Tuesday of August, to answer Hugh McClintrick of a plea of trespass. And have you then and there this writ. Witness: Jno. Edwards, Clerk. Court house aforesaid, the 10th day of July, 1789, in the eleventh year of the Commonwealth." Upon the back of this, written in the scrawl and vernacular of the venerable Daniel, is "Sir I Ecknowledge this write lawfully served. Daniel Boone."

A BOLD attempt was made to rob the First National Bank of Springfield, Illinois, on Friday last. A stranger walked up to the counter and stated that he wanted to sell $5,000 of 5-20's of 1868, and $3,000 of 1864, and, with the proceeds wanted to purchase $900 in gold and the remainder in 10 40 bonds. This transaction involved some calculation, and while the President and Teller of the bank were making it, a confederate of the stranger slipped through the President's room to the vault, and seized a package containing $15,000. He was making his way out of the bank when he was encountered by the Cashier, who immediately collared him. The stranger who wished to "sell his bonds" was also taken into custody. The former gave his name as Harper, and the latter as Stanford.

LAST WEEK while two clerks in S. A. Newman's drug store in Rochester were engaged in drawing alcohol, a light which one of the young men held in his hand came some way in contact with the can, and the fluid was ignited. In a moment the blaze was communicated to the alcohol in the vessel, which contained less than a pint, and a fearful explosion followed. The head of the can was blown out and bent double, the leg of a stool was broken off, as was also the top of a faucet, by the force of the blow. A skylight overhead was blown into pieces, a glass partition was shattered, and finally the large panes of plate glass in one of the windows were shattered to pieces. One of the clerks was knocked near a hatchway, and tumbling over fell into a cellar, and a boy was somewhat burned about the limbs by the fire, but both nevertheless escaped without serious injury.

TWO OR three years ago a ministerial association met in one of the beautiful villages of the Connecticut Valley. Some earnest reformers among the brethren introduced resolutions condemning the use of tobacco. A certain Doctor of Divinity, who smokes as well as he preaches, to the surprise of all, warmly seconded the resolutions, but urged that they did not go far enough, that they did not reach the roots of the great evil. For if the use of tobacco was a sin, then the raising of tobacco was a sin, and all those who received their support from money obtained by the raising of tobacco were under the same condemnation; all must be included in the resolutions, it would be obviously wrong to make any distinctions. These suggestions knocked the resolutions in the head; for were not many of the best men present engaged in tobacco culture? and were not some of the clergymen present receiving their salary from such culture? The vote did not pass, and the "D. D." still smokes and still preaches, and tobacco still grows in the Valley of the Connecticut.

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases. Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P.M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, Pa

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, Sept. 14, 1869.

There is nothing new or really important in the general markets worthy of special notice. The receipts of grain and produce generally, although not heavy, are sufficiently large enough to supply the demand which is mainly local, while in regard to prices, there are no essential changes, though the tendency of almost everything is downward. The competition for business is so great that margins are very much reduced, but while this is a little rough on the dealer it is all the better for the consumer. Fruits of all kinds are abundant and lower, and the same is true of vegetables.

SECURITY AND COMFORT for the traveling community.

J. B. HARRIS

Safety Fire Jacket, Car Heater and MODERATOR.

For Smoke and Hot Air Flues, dispensing with the use of stoves and fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cars to which the Jacket may be attached. Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket, which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be applied to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended.

It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto, I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, factories, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c. Wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desired, I will send on application right to manufacture or use the above invention. Also Territorial rights to such as may wish to engage in selling privileges either by State or county.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to recede steadily at this point, with 5½ feet in the channel by the Monongahela marks. Weather clear and pleasant.

Business continues quite active at the landing. All the boats are getting as much freight as they can handle.

The Maggie Hays, from Cincinnati, is due here to-day, as is also the Kenton.

The Julia No. 2 departed for Zanesville last evening.

The Belle, Capt. Sholes, is the regular packet for Parkersburg to-day, leaving at noon.

Capt. James Hamilton and James Henderson were the pilots on the Kate Putnam.

The Wild Duck, if she did not get off last night, will take her departure this morning. She took one of her barges below Burnot yesterday forenoon.

The Kate Putnam, from Cincinnati, arrived yesterday with a fair trip, including some 50 tons of metal. She will go on the dock after the Bellevernon is off, and will be repaired and repainted.

The R. C. Gray, Capt. Isaac Whittaker, is announced to depart for Cincinnati and Louisville this evening, and shippers should bear this in mind. The Gray is in good condition for business, as she is just off the dock.

Coffer-dam 5, at the works of the B. and O. R. R. bridge, at Parkersburg, was washed away on Friday, by the high water. It was one hundred feet long, sixty feet wide and nine feet deep. There were fifty large stones on it, weighing about one hundred tons. It is a total loss.

The new steamer Julia A. Rudolph, Capt. H. G. McComas, takes her departure for New Orleans to-day without fail. The Julia was built here under the special superintendence of Capt. McComas, who is no novice in the the business, as he has had a long experience in steamboating. He has in his time been sole owner of thirty-six steamers and part owner in fifty-two. The hull of this fine steamer was built at California by Eberman & Co., of seasoned timber. It measures 150 feet in length on deck, 34 feet beam, 4½ feet depth of hold; boilers by Thorn, 38 inches in diameter and 24 feet long; engines by Jas Reese, 16 inches, 5 feet stroke; cabin, Buntin & Co., very neat, with 13 feet lenghth of staterooms; painting, W. Nelson. She is 10 feet from her main deck to her cabin deck, with storage capacity for 1,600 bales of cotton.

—The Gallatin, from Pittsburgh, arrived at Memphis on Saturday.

—The Camelia left Cincinnati for St. Louis on Saturday with a fair trip.

—After her repairs are finished, Capt. Dean will load the Messenger for New Orleans.

—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company launched a barge at their yard at Parkersburg, Friday.

—Capt. A. G. Cunningham, an old steamboat Commander and clerk, left St. Louis Thursday, with his family, for a new home on the Pacific coast.

—Pilots Ed. Chapman and John Evelyn were summoned to New Albany, on Saturday, to bring the Mary Davage up. The boat is at New Albany and her barges at Flint Island.

—Saturday morning a colored cabin boy on the Pink Varble, named Bartlett Brooks, aged seventeen years, residing in Louisville, fell overboard while in the act of drawing a bucket of water, and passed under the barge James Good and was drowned. The body was not recovered,

—Capt. John Woodburn launched the new Arkansas River packet Mary Boyd, at Hambleton's shipyard, Saturday evening. She will ply between Memphis and Little Rock, and will be finished about the 1st of October. The Dardanella will be ready to leave Cincinnati the latter part of this week, to run in connection with the Fort Gibson in the Upper Arkansas.

—A Louisville special to the Cincinnati Commercial says: The inspectors of this district have made their decision in the case of the late explosion of the Cumberland, in the lower Ohio. They find that there was plenty of water in the boilers, but the iron of the boilers was not of the thickness prescribed by the law, and the blame is attached to incompent and irresponsible parties who may have inspected them, or they were never inspected at all, in which case the blame falls upon the owner of the boat.

THE GAZETTE surrenders, this morning, very largely of its space to copious reports of the interesting proceedings of yesterday.

THANKS to Hon. E. MCPHERSON, for a copy of his Political Manual, for 1869,—being the fourth annual number of a very useful compend of political information.

THE FOURTEENTH of September was a day to be remembered in our local history. A visit from the President of the United States, and the centenary exercises in memory of HUMBOLDT coming on the same day, absorbed the undivided interest of our people.

ON less than a two-thirds vote, the Republicans of Maine have profitably employed one day in overthrowing the Temperance-Democratic coalition, with a majority of about 8,000. GOV. CHAMBERLAIN is re-elected, with all other State officers, with all the Senators but three or four, and a large majority in the House.

FOR a first rate opinion of two Democratic candidates, as expressed by a third, we refer the admirers of Messrs. Packer and Pendleton, to the following extract from the letter of Gen. Rosecrans to the Ohio Legislature in 1863:

I am amazed that any one could think of "peace on any terms." He who entertains the sentiment is fit only to be a slave; he who utters it at this time is, moreover, a traitor to his country, who deserves the scorn and contempt of all honorable men.

THE Republican Convention which has been called in Virginia for November, is to be made up of delegates from "all the voters who favor an honest enforcement and faithful carrying out of all the provisions of the State Constitution recently adopted, and who propose to act in and with the Republican party for that object"—adopting that constitution as the platform of the reorganized party. The Richmond State Journal anticipates the cordial reunion of all the supporters of the Administration in Virginia. Late dissensions will be healed and a Republican majority will speedily resume its proper control of State affairs.

THE ceremonies of laying the cornerstone of a monument, in the Allegheny Park, to the memory of HUMBOLDT, were participated in and witnessed by an extraordinary concourse of people. It is estimated that twenty thousand persons were present. As usual in these communities, good order and decorum ruled the day, which closed with a rustic fete in the suburban woods. Taken altogether, it was a commemoration most faithful and spirited, and therefore most honorable to our citizens.

The site for the monument has been well chosen, in a conspicuous quarter of the new City Park. The structure is to be suitably imposing in its style, and, when complete, the tout ensemble will afford ample proofs that the memory of one of the greatest of modern philosophers and scientists is fitly preserved, among a people who devote themselves eminently to all the profitable applications of material knowledge.

THE PRESIDENTIAL OVATION.

General GRANT has enjoyed the largest facilities for acquiring a correct knowledge of this "State of Alleghony." When, at a late hour last night, he was released from hospitalities to repose, we may be quite sure that the President retired, thoroughly disposed to assent to the largely generous estimate which one of his most illustrious predecessors in office has historically placed upon the people of these cities and county.

We may speak of yesterday's ovation to the President with unaffected pride. We have, all of us, good reason to felicitate ourselves upon as well the just respect we have entertained for the high office and for the individual incumbent, as upon the spontaneous and universal expression in which that sentiment yesterday chrystalized itself.

Arrangements, of a nature perhaps as satisfactory as the limited time at the command of the local committees would allow, were somewhat imperfectly carried out. But the hearty hospitality of the people more than supplied all the shortcomings in this regard. The visit of President GRANT to these cities has been made the occasion for a purely popular ovation, a fresh, vigorous, and unrestricted explosion of the public enthusiasm for the hero of an extinguished rebellion, the choice of the nation for its loftiest civil trust. In effect, the people, going outside the formal outlines of municipal courtesy, and the meagre arrangements of committees, took matters much into their own hands yesterday, and saw for themselves, and welcomed as they should, a deserving Chief Magistrate.

The President's reception was as gratifying to him, as it was an eloquent expression of the popular regard. He leaves us to-day with even a more flattering estimate of our loyal spirit, of the enterprise and wealth of our communities, of the magnitude of our material interests, of the justice with which, in this seat of manufacturing industry, confidence is reposed in our clear title to the National consideration. President GRANT conducted yesterday the personal investigations which convinced him that Allegheny county, giving to him eleven thousand majority, knew exactly what it was for. He leaves our midst with a higher respect, even than before, mutually shared between President and people.

We understand that the President and his family are going to Washington county to-day for a short visit to relatives there, and will then proceed by way of Wheeling and Central Ohio, to Covington, Ky., the residence of his father, before returning to Washington.

RELIEF MEETING.

The meeting of citizens called by the Mayor to be held at Wilkins Hall at 2 P. M. this day, should be fully attended by all who feel a hearty sympathy for the bereaved and destitute women and orphans of Avondale. The movement here is somewhat tardy, but we are quite confident that its fruits will substantially vindicate the Christian charity of our people.

A LETTER, from one of the resigning candidates on the first opposition ticke in Philadelphia, and addressed to the Chairman of the Democratic City Committee, says:

I desire that your committee will select some other gentleman to take my place on the ticket as the candidate for City Treasurer, as I have very little inclination, under existing circumstances, to enter into the canvass as vigorously as its importance demands.

There appears to be a wide-spread feeling of dissatisfaction among the members of our party, and, while I do not wish to advise my associates on the ticket, I feel well assured that that feeling can only be reconciled by the formation of an entire new ticket.

I remain, very respectfully yours,
S. GROSS FRY.

THE Harrisburg Telegraph says:

The split on the Senatorial question still continues in the XVth district, and the dispute between the rival factions is not only warm, but bitter. The Democratic organ, in Montour county flies the Chalfant flag, and denounces Buckalew. Chalfant claims the nomination in an article under his own signature, and he is backed by the Montour conferees and by McNinch, one of the Columbia county conferees. Most of the Democratic papers in the district—Northumberland, Columbia, Montour and Sullivan counties—have hoisted the Buckalew flag, but there is evidently wide-spread dissatisfaction in the ranks.

England and France on Spanish Affairs—Spain Advised to Get Rid of Cuba at Once—Health of the French Emperor—He Contemplates Abdicating—Iron Clads for Cuba—Spain "Will Know How to Maintain Her Flag With Dignity"—Ecuminical Council—Prince Charles and the Jews.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SPAIN.

LONDON, September 14.—The Madrid correspondent of the Times writes as follows: Hitherto the Spanish Government and press have unwisely adopted the plan of concealing unfavorable Cuban news; but the Epoca has now broken silence, and startled the Spaniards by making a statement of the actual facts, and by vehemently urging the dispatch of troops and the union of men of all parties so the Government may be left free to save Cuba. The news of Gen. Sickles' proposal to recognize the Cuban insurgents as beligerents has caused as much excitement as if he had threatened to take the part of the Cubans. It had the effect to make the funds fall to the lowest point they had touched for sixteen years. The dispatch of Gen. Sickles has not yet been published. Whatever its moral effect may be, the remonstrance of the United States has unquestionably terrified the Spaniards amazingly.

The Times in an editorial on the Cuban question says if American negotiations for the accession of Cuba have failed, it must be because the sum tendered was deemed insufficient or the Washington Government dreads the opposition of those who feel confident that Cuba must fall into the hands of the United States, and deem it folly to incur the liability. The Spanish Government has been admonished to put an end to insurrection or give up the island on any terms. If those circumstances have prompted the Madrid Government to play its last card for the Antilles and stake all on it, it cannot be congratulated on its resolution. The subjugation of Cuba cannot be achieved by soldiers, nor will it result from a series of victories. Troops may hold the seaports but the inland regions will be against them. Armed columns may traverse the island but can nowhere establish a permanent footing. With the exception of a few traders, Spain has no friends in the island. Prim and Serrano have often told the Cortes that the loss of Cuba is merely a question of time. For four months they have been devising the most advantageous terms. It is to be hoped that wisdom and consistency will enable them to see that it is good to be rid of the Island on any terms, and cause them to consider before wasting men and money, which they cannot spare, in the furtherance of an enterprise which will never yield a hundredth part of what it has already irrepairably cost.

FRANCE.

PARIS, September 13.—A rumor which is being extensively circulated in the city to-day, is to the effect that the Emperor Napoleon seriously contemplated the abdication of the throne of France, in favor of his son, the Prince Imperial. It is said that a Council of the Regency will be created, having the Empress and Prince Napoleon Bonaparte at its head, as is provided in the new constitution, to endure through his minority.

Napoleon's health remains in a very uncertain condition.

PARIS, September 14.—The Emperor gave audience to Gen. Prim yesterday.

Letters from Madrid assert that a fleet of ironclads will be sent to Cuba in November in case the United States recognize the insurgents.

The Spanish Government stops all telegrams which it does not approve, especially those concerning Cuba.

The Barcelova Diaris hopes that, notwithstanding the action of the United States, Spain will know how to maintain her flag and dignity.

The Parisians are pursuaded that the Emperer is recovering, although a marked alteration in his appearance is observed. There is great anxiety in regard to the regency. By law the Empres is regent during minority of her son. It is generally believed the Emperer desires to promote good understanding between the Empress and Prince Napoleon. The idea of intrusting a share of the regency to the Prince is discountenanced by some, while hints are current that the Prince's absence on board his yacht is connected with the plans of others in his behalf, if not directly with his own.

The Journal Des Soba, referring to the recent meeting of Americans in London, held for the purpose of congratulating Prince Napoleon on his Liberal speech in the Senate, says a little more and it would be considered there was some danger in speaking. This congratulation was an eulogy carried too far. The speech of Prince Napoleon showed good sense, shrewdness, eloquence and moderation, but no peril. To have made such a speech ten years ago would have been an act of courage, but there is no boldness now in telling the Senate what everybody but the Senate thinks.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Times predicts that the Ecumenical Council will not sit much longer, and will declare the infallibility of the Pope in the proposal of an English prelate. It also believes the recent syllabus of the Pope will be made law and the assumption of the virgin will be proclaimed. A meeting of persons in favor of granting pardon to Fenians now under sentence was held to-day.

DUBLIN, Sept. 14.—The Lord Lieutenant in reply to a deputation of city corporations, said Her Majesty's government was attentively considering the land question and the release of Fenian prisoners.

PRUSSIA.

BERLIN, September 14.—The centennial anniversary of the birth of Humboldt was celebrated to-day, and was made the occasion of a national demonstration. Although the weather was rainy, large numbers of citizens and great crowds of visitors took part in the festivities.

AUSTRIA.

VIENNA, September 14—Prince Charles of Roumany has arrived here. He had audience with the Emperor, at which the position of the Jews in the Principality was discussed. He subsequently had an interview with the chief Rabbi of Vienna.

MARINE NEWS.

BREST, September 14.—The Perriere arrived yesterday.

LONDONDERRY, September 14.—The steamship Damascus has arrived out.

—The grand jury of Monroe county, Illinois, have found indictments against McCoole, Gallagher and Allen for violation of a statute law in fighting a prize fight within that county, and have issued warrants for their arrest.

ST. LOUIS.

Perry Fuller and Waddy Thompson Sent to New Orleans—The Charges Against Them.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, September 14.—Waddy Thompson, of Memphis, who came to St. Louis with Perry Fuller, has been arrested, charged with being connected with Fuller in revenue frauds at New Orleans. Both parties waived an examination to-day, and were ordered by United States Commissioner Eaton to be sent to New Orleans by the United States Marshal. A Deputy United States Marshal is here from New Orleans and will assist in taking the prisoners down.

Since Waddy Thompson has been here he has entered suit in the Circuit Court against Hudson E. Bridge & Co., Albert Piecce, Warren T. Hicocx and James L. Lamb, for different sums, aggregating two hundred and twenty thousand dollars, claimed to be due him on cotton speculations during the war.

The complaint against Fuller and Thompson is made by Thomas J. Kinsella, a special Treasury agent, and charges that from December 1st, 1868, to April 1869, they did at various times fraudulently and feloniously remove large quantities of sugar, coffee, pepper &c., from bonded warehouses in New Orleans, without paying duty thereon, and sending them to St. Louis, appropriating the proceeds.

Interesting Document Concerning Sir John Franklin.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, September 13.—A party, who is vouched for as reliable, writes from San Buenamenta that a document was fonnd on the beach at that place, August 30th, much mutilated. It requested the finder to forward it to the Secretary of the Admiralty at London, or the British Consul at the nearest port. The request is printed in six commercial languages. On the margin every vacant position is filled with writing in relation to Sir John Franklin and his party. The document was evidently cast into the water in latitude 69 degrees, 27 minutes and 2 seconds, longitude 97 degrees, 4 minutes and 5 seconds. It gives an account of the direction of the ships Erebus and Terror. The party numbered one hundred and five, and at the time of desertion, was under the command of F. W. Crossier. They succeeded in reaching the above latitude and longitude, where they found relics of the late Sir John Ross. It states the Harry wintered at Beecher Island in 1846 and 1847, and Sir John Franklin died on the 11th of June, 1847. It contains many interesting incidents connected with the expedition.

—The neck of land on the Buffalo city front, between Buffalo river and Lake Erie, having been selected by various railway and mining companies as the most available depot from which to supply the West with Pennsylvania and other coals, a great rivalry has sprung up for the right to build a railway along the beach to connect with the different railways terminating at this point. Several railways connected with the coal trade are now building extensive improvements on this neck of land to accommodate the coal trade.

—The Chicago Republican city convention to-day nominated George W. Gage, of the Tremont House, for Mayor, Frank Wentworth for City Treasurer, and Geo. Van Hollow for City Collector. Joseph E. Gary was nominated for Judge of the Supreme Court, J. C. Knickerbocker for Judge of the County Court, Charles H. Hall for County Treasurer, and O. W. Kerrick for County Superintendent of Schools.

NEW YORK CITY.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, September 14, 1869.

The centennial anniversary of the birth of Humboldt, was enthusiastically celebrated by Germans and others. The public buildings, hotels and shipping were handsomely decorated with bunting. The headquarters of the various German societies being elaborately decorated. The procession to Central Park numbered about 3,000 persons. The unveiling of Humboldt's monument there was an interesting event. The ceremonies opened by an overture from Oberon, after which C. E. Ditmald, President of the Humboldt Monument Association, presented the monument to the Central Park Commissioners. It was then unveiled and Andrew H. Green, Comptroller of the park, spoke in acceptance of the gift. The various societies then sung the choras; "O Isis and Osiris." Prof. Lieber delivered an eloquent oration in German, and Prof. Doremus delivered an able address in English, and after further music the cermonies ended. A grand banquet took place at the Germinia Hall this evening, followed by a torchlight procession of many thousand people.

The Germans of Hudson county, N. J., had a fine celebration in honor of the day.

It appears from the proceedings in the Supreme Court to-day, that Charles B. Conklin, one of the messengers of the Merchants' Union Express Company has been under detention by the Deputy Sheriff for nearly a month on suspicion of having been privy to the robbery of the Company on the 11th ult., on the New York Central Railroad. Under a writ of habeas corpus Conklin was to day produced in Court, and there being no testimony against him, he was discharged from custody.

Reports of Courts proceedings state the amount obtained by robbers at $800,000.

The rumors current of the serious illness of James Gordon Bennett, are quite unfounded. He was at the Herald office some hours to day in good health.

A grand banquet was given at Delmonico's this evening in honor of the Harvard crew. They have accepted the hospitalities of the city of Boston.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company has given $20,000 for the relief of the Avondale sufferers. The Company do not believe the fire in the mine was the work of incendiaries, but the result of the carelessness of a miner who ascended the shaft with a bundle of hay, which became ignited from a lamp carried in his hat.

Adams Express Company have contributed $1,000 for the sufferers. Work at all the mines is going on quietly to-day, except at Avondale, where $50,000 and several months' time must be consumed in repairs.

The steamer Helsatia sailed to-day. She took $50,000 in specie.

It is stated the competing lines to the West are making strong efforts to obtain the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad by buying up its franchise, as it approaches completion. The road will soon be opened to Fishkill.

The Young Men's Christian Association, of Brooklyn, is to have a new building. One gentleman has subscribed $20,000, and another $10,000.

Mr. Stewart's title to the Hempstead plains purchase, has finally been confirmed and the deed recorded.

James Mace, the English pugilist, is among the passengers in the City of Antwerp.

Annexation of Canada to the United States.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

QUEBEC, Sept. 14.—At an annexation meeting held in Quebec, Sunday afternoon, the following resolutions were adopted:

First—For many years past we have seen, with deep regret, our real estate sink rapidly, our ship building interest disappear perhaps forever, our magnificent water power, the greatest in the aggregate of any single locality on this Continent, rush wildly past our doors and our youth, the flower of our population, flying to the United States in countless thousands from the desolation which seems to have marked our city as its own.

Second—Differences existing between the depressed condition of this Dominion and the ever-increasing prosperity of our neighboring Republic has impelled us to the conclusion that the difference has its rise not in imaginary boundary lines, but in the working of the instutions of the two countries.

Third—It is therefore the deliberate opinion of this meeting that steps should be taken at once toward addressing the Imperial authority through his Excellency, the Governor General, a respectful petition praying to be informed whether a nearly unanimous desire on the part of the inhabitants of the dominion for its incorporation with the territory of the United States would not receive from the British people the same gracious reception as was accorded not many years ago to a like request from the inhabitants of the Ionian Island for a union with the kingdom af Greece.

Messrs. O'Farrel and Wm. McAvoy spoke at length on the subject, and the meeting, after naming a Committee to carry out the resolutions, broke up with three cheers for annexation and three more for Mrs. Odouavan, to whose approach Mr. O'Farrel called attention. The crowd was very orderly in its conduct, and except from a few no marks of disapprobation were evinced. The police did not interfere.

Movements of Ex-Secretarry Seward—San Diego and Gila Railroad.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, September 14.—Wm. H. Seward to-day attended the opening of the Seventh Industrial exhibition in Mechanics Institute, and afterwards visited the public schools by invitation of the Board of Education. He leaves to-morrow by steamer for San Diego, and returns overland, probably to participate in breaking ground for the San Diego and Gila Railroad. He departs from here by the Panama steamer on the 30th for Manzanilla, where preparations are already made for his transportation to the City of Mexico under escort. The Mexican Consul to day writes to his Government to prepare for Seward's reception.

Generals Rosecrans and Sedgwick leave to-morrow for San Diego, to inaugurate work on the San Diego and Gila railroad. Funds sufficient to build the road to Gila river have been subscribed. Congressman Axtell accompanies the party for the purpose of inspecting the harbor of San Diego and report to Congress the result of his observations.

Anniversary of Humboldt.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WHEELING, September 14.—The celebration of the anniversary of Humboldt commenced last night in Turner Hall. This morning the city was decorated with flags and evergreens at an early hour. A large procession of German societies paraded the principal streets and then repaired to the fair grounds, where orations were delivered in English and German eulogistic of the great philosopher, by Henry Walker, of the Daily Register, and H. Rappopert, of the German Patriot. The afternoon will be devoted to festivities. The weather is fine.

THOU BRINGEST ME LIFE—LUNG-WORT.

One of the truest and most suggestive ideas can be obtained from the caption at the head of this article; for of all diseases which impair human health and shorten human life, none are more prevalent than those which affect the lungs and pulmonary tissues. Whether we regard lung diseases in the light of a merely slight cough, which is but the fore-runner of a more serious malady, or as a deep lesion corroding and dissolving the pulmonary structure, it is always pregnant with evil and foreboding of disaster. In no class of maladies should the physician or the friends and family of the patient be more seriously forewarned than in those of the lungs, for it is in them that early and effielent treatment is most desirable, and it is then that danger can be warded off and a cure effected. In DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE you have a medicine of the greatest value in all these conditions. An alterative, a tonic, a nutrient and resolvent, succoring nature and sustaining the recuperative powers of the system. Its beautiful workings, in harmony with the regular functions, can be readily observed by the use of one or two bottles: it will soon break up the chain of morbid sympathies that disturb the harmonious workings of the animal economy. The harrassing cough, the painful respiration, the sputum streaked with blood, will soon give place to the normal and proper workings of health and vigor.

An aggregated experience of over thirty years has enabled Dr. Keyser, in the compounding of his LUNG CURE, to give new hope to the consumptive invalid and at the same time speedy relief in those now prevalent, catarrhal and throat affections, so distressing in their effects and so almost certainly fatal in their tendencies, unless cured by some appropriate remedy. DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE is so thorough and efficient, that any one who has ever used it, will never be without it in the house. It will often cure when everything else fails, and in simple cases will cure oftentimes in a few days.

The attention of patients, as well as medical men, is respectfully invited to this new and valuable addition to the pharmacy of the country.

DR. KEYSER may be consulted every day until 1 o'clock P. M. at his Great Medicine Store, 167 Liberty street, and from 4 to 6 and 7 to 9 at night.

THE FEVER AND AGUE SEASON.

When the leaves begin to change, remittent and intermittent fevers make their appearance. From the surface of the earth, bathed nightly in heavy dews, from marshes and swamps surcharged with moisture, from the dying foliage of the woods, from festering pools and sluggish streams, the sun of September evolves clouds of miasmatic vapor perilous to health and life. The body, deprived by the burning temperature of July and August of much of its vigor and elasticity, is not in a proper plight to resist malaria, and hence all diseases that are produced by a depraved condition of the atmosphere are particularly prevalent in the Fall.

There is no reason why the health of thousands of people should be thus sacrificed. A preparatory course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is a certain protection against the epidemics and endemics which Autumn brings in its train. Let all dwellers in unhealthy localities, liable to such visitations, give heed to the warning and advice conveyed in this advertisement, and they may bid defiance to the foul exhalations which are now rising, night and day, from the soil around them. No farmhouse in the land should be without this invaluable exhilerant and invigorant at any period of the year, but especially in the Fall. It is not safe to go forth into the chill, misty atmosphere of a September morning or evening with the stomach unfortified by a tonic, and of all the tonics which medical chemistry has yet given to the world, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are admitted to be the purest, the most wholesome and the most beneficial.

Let all who desire to escape the bilious attacks, bowel complaints and malarious fevers, take the BITTERS at least twice a day throughout the present season. It is as wholesome as it is infallible. Look to the trade-mark, "HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS," engraved on the label and embossed on the bottle, and their revenue stamp covering the cork, as counterfeits and imitations abound.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, September 14, 1869.

Money market easy, at 7 per cent. on call. After three o'clock in the afternoon balances could be had at 6 per cent. discount. Market nominal at 9@12 per cent.

Secretary Boutwell will arrive in this city to-morrow on his way to Washington.

It is reported that a large amount of legal tenders which were taken out of the market last week have been restored to circulation. The banks are sending moderate amounts of currency to the South and West, the demand from both sections being chiefly for smaller denominations of notes, which are very scarce in this and other eastern cities. A number of prominent capitalists, among them several large holders of Lake Shore and Michigan Southern stocks, have been invited by Mr. Boody, President of the Toledo, Wabash and Western Railroad, to visit and inspect that road, so as to form and intelligent opinion of the value of property. A party will leave to-morrow for Toledo, where they will be joined by some large holders of Wabash stock. Common and preferred stocks of the Erie Railway Company were this morning restored to call at the New York stock exchange. The President of the stock exchange, in announcing the restoration, read the following letter:

OFFICE OF ERIE RAILWAY, NEW YORK, September 11, 1869.—R. G. Rolston, Esq., President of Farmers Loan and Trust Company.—Dear Sir: The following is a statement of the stock, debt and lease hold estates, in answer to your inquiries of this date. The amount of common stock issued is seventy millions, and the amount of common scrip none. The amount of preferred stock, including scrip, $8,536,910. The amount of mortgage debt, seven per cent., authorized and issued, is as follows: First mortgage, $3,000,000, extended May, 1867, due 1897; second mortgage, $4,000,000; date of issue March 1st, 1849. Mortgage six millions, date of issue, March 15th, 1853. Fourth mortgage 441,000, date of issue, Oct., 1857, due 1880. Fifth mortgage 926,500, date of issue, June 1st, 1859, due 1888. Buffalo branch mortgage 186,400, date of issue, June 1st, 1861, due 1891.. The amount of sterling bonds one million pounds equivalent to $4,484,000, dates of issue Sep. 1st, 1865, due 1875. Under a statute of the State, mortgage debt is convertible into stock only within ten years from date of issue, the ten years have expired on all but the sterling loan, and as it is selling at par in London is in no danger of conversion. There is no leased road that can be converted into stock of this Company, except in compliance with the rules of the Stock Exchange, by giving thirty days' notice, nor will any increase be made in any firm except in compliance with afossaid rule.

[Signed] JAY GOULD, Pres't,
H. N. OTIS, Secretary.

Stocks were weak during the morning, with Erie Railway, Michigan Southern and New York Central as the principal features. Erie advanced to 41 for common stock and 71 for preferred, on the restoration of the stock to call at two o'clock exchange. In Michigan Southern the dealings have been larger; new share certificates of this Company have appeared on the street, from which it is inferred that large sales of stock were made yesterday by the New York Central Railroad Company, they having obtained new and small certificates for single certificates of one million recently received for a similar amount of Buffalo and Erie stock. A report is also current that the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern stock holders will not ratify the terms of consolidation with Wabash, and the advance in Rock Island to 113⅜ was assisted by reports that the Pennsylvania Railroad own a controlling interest in stock; also that the semi-annual dividend will not be reduced to 3½ per cent., as reported. The market continued strong till three o'clok, when there was a disposition to sell, and prices declined then, with principal dealings in the Erie, Michigan Southern, Rock Island, New York Central, Northwestern & Pacific Mail, the latter being noticeably weak at the close, and prices are unsettled. It is estimated that the Vanderbilt party have bought back the Michigan Southern they recently sold in hope to effect a defeat of consolidation with the Lake Shore Road ultimately to secure the latter line interest in the New York Central. The Hudson River Railroad Co. has declared a dividend of of 4 per cent., free, payable on October 15th.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, September 14, 1869.

There is a good deal of complaint among refiners in regard to the light gravity of the crude oil that is now, and has recently been, delivered to them, and as it is a serious matter, it is deemed worthy of special mention. Last year nearly all the contracts specified the gravity to be 40 to 45; this year most of the oil sold has been at 40 to 46, and there is some talk now of making it 40 to 47. Refiners generally expect when they make a contract for 40 to 45 or 40 to 46, to get a gravity somewhere between these extremes; but we are told most of the oil "put in" recently has been up to the very outside notch. This is attributed to the fact that large quantities of benzine are mixed in with oil in the wells, ostensibly for the purpose of dissolving or removing the paraffine; but some, who are not so charitably disposed, allege that it is for the purpose of increasing the quantity, and thus realize the price of crude oil for benzine. Refiners tell us, and they ought to know, that 46 gravity crude will not yield more than 65 per cent. of refined, whereas 44 or 45 gravity crude will yield 70 to 72. Now there is no objection made to selling 46 or 47 gravity oil; that is all right and legitimate; but refiners do object to its being considered merchantable oil and sold as such, when it is not so in fact. If 46 gravity oil will only turn out 65 per cent of refined, it follows that it should not bring as much as 44 or 45, which turns out 70 or 72. There should be a distinction where there is a difference, and refiners, as we have already intimated, complain that in many cases they pay for merchantable oil, when in fact it is unmerchantable, and that if they had known as much when they bought as they did when the oil was delivered, they would not, by any means, have agreed to the price. In other words, when they contract for oil of 40 to 46 gravity, they expect that it will be somewhere between 40 and 46, and not 46.

CRUDE.

Not a single sale reported, market quiet but steady, and while the demand is light, the same is also true of the offerings. Spot or seller September is still quoted at 14¾ here, or $5,75 on cars at Oil City. Buyer all year nominal at 14¾@15.

REFINED.

The only noticeable feature in the refined market is the fact that there is an improved demand from the West, several round lot sales having been made within the past week or two to go to Cincinnati and other points in the West. To-day we can report 200 bbls on cars at works at 28¾; and 500 at 29¼, delivered on boat. For Philadelphia delivery, September last half, is quoted at 32¾; October at 32⅜@32½, and lines for September to December at 32¼ to 32⅜.

THE West Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran Church will meet in Gettysburg on Wednesday evening, September 22. The Synod at one time embraced the territory of Pennsylvania west of the Susquehanna river, and hence its distinctive name. Three other Synods (Central, Allegheny and Pittsburgh,) have since been organized, and the West Pennsylvania now extends only over four counties, Adams, York, Cumberland and Franklin. There will probably be about forty ministers present, with a corresponding number of lay delegates. The Synod will continue in session about one week.

A PHILADELPHIA paper says: "When butter hucksters tell us that the high price of butter is a consequence of a loss of succulence in their pasture they tell an untruth. We know a Pennsylvania Railroad conductor who buys in Harrisburg, for himself and neighbors, at 25c. a pound, a better article than that for which West Jersey and Chester county people are asking 80c. With a grin of savage joy, we were told on Saturday in the market, that before June next the price of the commodity would be a dollar per pound. A butter league may knock these gentry this season, as it did the last."

AT the house of a colored woman named Fanny Bishop, in Philadelphia, on Sunday last, a number of colored people had assembled to attend the funeral of a child. Around the corpse, which was lying in the lower or first story room, the mourning relatives were gathered listening to the exhortation of a colored minister, when suddenly the entire floor gave way, and carried with it into the cellar all the people and furniture that had been standing upon it. The body of the deceased child went down along with the living, the corpse falling among one portion of the debris and the coffin into another part. With the frightened persons shrieking for help and endeavoring to release themselves, the scene was most exciting and painful. In an instant, however, the police and people of the locality were upon the spot, and a few moments' work brought the unfortunate mourners from their unpleasant position. About twenty persons, men, women and children, were thrown violently together among the debris, but they escaped without very serious injuries. After considerable difficulty, the corpse was brought out of the wrecked house in an unharmed condition.

The Avondale Horror.

Wm. Halliday, who was among the first to enter the mine after the fire was extinguished, has made the following statement:

PINE RIDGE COLLIERY, Sept. 8.—I, Wm. Halliday, have been three times down the shaft; the first time I could not go away from the bottom. I went down the second time to-day, and, with three others, went up the plane in the east gangway, as near as I could judge, one hundred paces; the first we saw were two men in a car, dead; a few paces further on were 66 men and boys, in a pile, lying in different positions—some on their faces, others on their backs; fathers with sons in their arms, who, from appearances, had died with great struggle. We began to feel overcome with the fire-damp and smell from the dead bodies, but still felt as we could not come away without bringing one of the dead with us, and accordingly we each got a boy on our shoulders and brought them up with us. After I found this lot of men I went about fifty feet further on to the back end, but found no more. The third time, I with three others went in the same gangway and brought out a man. About thirty of the men had their shirts drawn over their heads for protection.

The fact, as stated by Mr. Halliday, that thirty of the men were found with their heads and faces covered by their shirts, is accepted by many as evidence of a terrible struggle on the part of the miners to fight for life as long as possible. The positions of the bodies also indicated as much, although the faces of the dead, except in a few instances, exhibited no signs of great suffering or mental torture. Even on that cold cluster of human bodies grouped together like hideous statuary by the hand of death, the testimony of affection in the last moment of life was written. Folded in each other's arms were friends who stood by each other under the sunlight above, and now, though dead, their bodies were locked together in friendship. The man Evans was found partially sitting up and holding on each arm a boy, his own son, who had answered the same dread summons that came to his helpless father. What the feelings of all the prisoners were we may attempt to imagine, but we can never fully realize.

When it became evident, after the fire in the shaft had been suppressed, that an attempt at rescue must be made, the crowd about the shaft became tremendously excited. The bravest fell back appalled at the prospect of venturing alone in a bucket down into the gloom of that awful ruin, not unlike a living picture of hell itself. The beams of timber in the partition across the centre of the shaft still smoked from the recent fire. Whoever should go down took his life in his hands; for all the sulphurous gases had been let loose by the consuming fire, and one breath of such was sure asphyxtion.

Mr. Charles Vartue, of the Grand Tunnel colliery, was the first man who ventured down the mine. He stepped forth to the sacrifice looking the beau ideal of a hero, with a well-cut, resolute face, athletic build, and a clear blue eye of unwavering steadiness. It was here the heroism was shown to which no mere words or praise and admiration can do adequate justice. Vartue was the first to go down the shaft, but others as heroic followed and penetrated in darkness and amid rushing crowds of sulphur into gang-ways and chambers where death in frightful shapes had visited. The courage of the battle-field has nothing in it nobler or more self-sacrificing than the conduct of these brave men, who, conceiving that in some remote chamber of the mine their fellow men were waiting and panting for deliverance, struggled through the foul air, the awful gloom and oppressive stillness to rescue them or perish in the attempt.

A New Illuminating Gas.

Professor Silliman, of Yale, and a chemist of merit named Wurtz, have been a long time engaged in the attempt to utilize water in the manufacture of illuminating gas. The method that they have adopted is thus described by the New York Evening Post:

The first step is to bring very highly heated steam into a clay retort, in which pure anthracite coal is burning. The coal is purely carbon; the steam, of course, consists of the same elements as water; that is, the two gases, oxygen and hydrogen. Now, the oxygen of the steam combines with the coal carbon, and forms the gas known as oxide of carbon, leaving also the hydrogen gas free. These two gases are thus produced in equal volume. They are both combustible, and burn with an intense heat, although they give, when burning, hardly any light.

These gases are then mixed with the common illuminating gases, made by distilling bituminous coal. The mixture, it is found by experiment, forms a brilliantly burning gas, which is better, in some respects, than the best of that with which our houses are usually lighted; for example, it is more permanent under exposure to severe cold. But the main advantage is in the saving of expense. It is plain that this method turns water, and the whole weight of anthracite coal used, into illuminating gas, while the old process yields in gas only the volatile part of the bituminous coal thrown off in distillation. Unless the new method involves an enormous expense for heat and machinery, therefore, the saving by it must be large.

In point of fact, Messrs. Silliman and Wurtz assured us that they are able practically to add fifty per cent. to the amount of illuminating gas obtained from a given expenditure of coal, or, what is the same thing, to save one-third of the fuel now used in making gas. The result has been attained in their experimental works, erected near New Haven almost a year ago; and it is understood that the gas works of that city are about to be reconstructed according to the new method, when it will have a full trial on a large scale. Should their anticipation be confirmed, the result will be an important addition to the comfort of nearly every household in the land. Indeed, an easy calculation will show that a saving of one-third in the cost of artificial light throughout the United States would be an immediate contribution to the wealth of the country actually amounting for the first year to more than half the interest of the national debt; and increasing largely every succeeding year.

A THIRSTY QUAKER having stopped at a tavern to get a pot of beer, and observed that the measure was deficient, asked the landlord how many casks he drew in a month. "Ten," was the reply. "And wouldst thou like to draw eleven, my friend?" "Yes." "Then I will tell thee how: Fill thy measure and thee will draw it."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the livor and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens into the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abcesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow, the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparation with the same remarkable success. Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. HUMBOLDT.

ing to the stone, tried it and said: Right Worshipful Master; I find this corner stone level, and that the craftsmen have worked well.

The D. D. G. M. then said to the Wardens: Brothers: You will proceed to the stone while the laborers and bearers are laying it in proper position at the northeast angle of the foundation. You will try it with the Plumb, Level and Square, and report to us if it is well and duly prepared.

The stone was lowered to its bed and tried by the officers, who returned to their stations, when the Senior Warden reported to the D. D. G. M. that the stone was placed due East and West, and was ready to be laid.

The choir now sang the

Grand Hallelujah Chorus,

After which the Senior and Junior Deacons proceeded to the stone with the trowel and gavel. The D. D. G. M., preceded by the Deacons, followed to the stone, and taking the trowel from the Junior put on some cement and placed it beneath the stone. Then taking the gavel from the Senior he struck the stone three times. Returning to the station he said: Whereas, Richard Vaux, Grand Master of Free and Accepted Masons in Pennsylvania, and Masonic jurisdiction thereunto belonging, has by his dedimus potestatem, under his hand and seal, to me directed, authorizing and empowering me to lay this corner stone, I, A. M. Pollock, District Deputy Grand Master for this Masonic district, declare this corner stone to be plumb, level and square, and so duly laid according to the ancient usages, customs and landmarks of Free Masonry, and may the Great Architect of Heaven and Earth bless the work here begun, and make it memorable to the latest generations.

The choir followed with an anthem commencing:

"Now the corner stone is laid."

upon the conclusion of which the Stewards proceeded to the stone bearing cups filled with oil and wine, and a cornucopia filled with corn. The officers advanced to the stone, and the D. D. G. M. taking the cornucopia, sprinkled some of the corn on the stone, saying at the same time, "May plenty be showered down on the people of this ancient Commonwealth, and may the labors of the craft be refreshed by the Great Giver of every good and perfect gift.

The Senior Warden took the cup containing the wine, and pouring the contents on the stone, said: May the health of the craftsmen employed in erecting this monument be preserved to them, and may the Supreme Architect bless and prosper their labors.

The Janior Warden next took the cup containing oil, and, pouring the contents on the stone, said: May the Supreme Ruler of the world vouchsafe unity, peace and prosperity to the people of Pennsylvania, and to the nations of the earth; preserve and protect the fraternity of Free Masons; make the virtues of the craft a lesson to the world, and the labors of the craftsmen easy and their burdens light.

The officers then returned to their positions, and after the choir had sung the hymn commencing

"Come, Father of the poor, to earth."

Marshal Finlay again commanded silence, and made the following announcement: Brethren, take notice that the R. W. D. D. G. M., Bro. A. M. Pollock, D. D. G. M. of F. and A. Masons in this District, has this day, at this place, laid the Corner Stone of this Monument, under and by virtue of the power vested in him by R. W. Richard Vaux, G. M. of Masons in Philadelphia.

The choir then sang the anthem commencing

"With one consent let all the earth,"

After which the Masonic ceremonies were concluded with the benediction by Chaplain McIlyar.

At the conclusion of the Masonic ceremonies, which occupied about an hour, a passage was cleared through the crowd, thus affording a full view of the monument. A photograph was then taken of the scene, the men standing with uncovered heads, the ladies lowering their parasols, and the members of the Masonic Order, in full regalia, occupying prominent positions around the corner stone which had just been laid.

THE ORATIONS.

The Masonic ceremonies being over, the next exercise on the programme was the address of Dr. Meinerthazen, the German orator of the day. The speaker made an impressive and eloquent address, reviewing the times and life of Humboldt, his great work in the advancement of knowledge, the influence which it was now having and would have in the hereafter, and closed by a touching peroration on the character of the departed genius to whose memory they had been doing honor.

Dr. Ehrhardt was the next speaker, who addressed the audience at some length, and was frequently applauded by his German hearers.

Gen. F. H. Collier next introduced Mr. Wm. D. Moore, who had been appointed to deliver the English oration. The following is

ADDRESS OF WM. D. MOORE, ESQ.

To the student of science, to the lover of letters, to the friend of humanity, no spectacle could be presented more welcome and cheering than that which we to-day look upon and of which we form a part. From the workshop has come the artizan, from his counting room, the merchant; from his study, the scholar; man from his labor, and woman from her love, and children from their play. Leaving the tools upon the bench; the merchandize upon the counter; the books upon the shelves, labor, and wealth and learning, and beauty, and innocence, have gathered together to-day to lay the foundations of a monument to, and scatter flowers upon the grave of one who is known to us only as a name, for always roaming with a hungry heart; whose lineage and kindred are strange to us, and who sleeps in everlasting peace under the solemn pines of Tegel, unconscious of our love and heedless of our prayers; separated from us and all our material environments and interests by the space of half the earth and its waste of waters. The period in which he lived was one of almost world-wide tumult and convulsion. His youthful eyes looked upon Frederick the Great, and recalled the birth of the Prussian Monarchy, and the humiliation of the house of Hapsburg. His ears caught from afar the opening guns of our own great conflict. He beheld the stormy fury of the French Revolution, and heard the trampling hosts of Napoleon and Wellington, from the sands of Egypt to the bloody sod of Waterloo. Empires and Kingdoms rose and fell; the whole face of human society underwent wide transformations; an old order died, a new was born; and in no period of time has there lived a more illustrious company of great and gifted men, yet the upholders of this or that dynasty are forgotten, the bloody hero of this or that scene of cruel carnage, is remembered, if at all, with something akin to disgust. Kings and Princes have become to us as the fine dust of the balance, and the force of Frederick, the genius of Napoleon, the persistency of Wellington, the craft of Metternich, the subtlety of Talleyrand, the pomp, the splendor and sensuous delights of Sans Souci and Versailles, all have gone or are swiftly going down to the depths of Lethe—to fade more and more from man's remembrance; to become less and less worthy of man's remembrance until merciful oblivion cover all the craft-cruelty, pride and blood of warriors, tyrants and their parasites forever.

How does it happen then that to Alexander Humboldt a happier lot has fallen: that whilst so many have perished and are forgotten, he, a lonely and solitary student poring over books—wandering in tropic forests—climbing the hights of far off mountains and floating on the waves of sea—like rivers far away from human hearts, has steadily grown with the passing years in the love and admiration of man, his renown ever widening, his fame ever brightening—as from the storm and darkness of roaring waves, the lonely tower rises whose unfailing light and steady brightness give hope and guidance to those who go down into the the great deep?—as from the bosom of night and silence, the sun comes forth tipping with crimson and gold the floating clouds and mountain peaks—steadily rising to the zenith and pouring a flood of glory down into every darkened crevice and mountain fastness—till blooming flower, and singing bird, and waving forest and rippling river are bright with his life giving splendor—?

"The ideal of his life."

The answer to this question is alike honoring to him and to us. To justify the homage which we render to his memory, by unfolding the record of his long and laborious life—portraying the work of his magnificently endowed intellect, and delineating the graces of his good and noble character is to give fresh power and hope to every struggling heart in all the generations of men which seek after knowledge as for hid treasure, and prizes wisdom above the price of rubies. The homage paid to Alex. Von Humboldt, is the homage paid by the senses to the soul—by the wealth and power of the world to the better riches and the mightier power of the intellect, and so by the earthly and perishable to the eternal and divine. For the ideal of his life was one which took no account of ease, of station, of enjoyment of pomp or power. From his earliest days when his mother found him "pouring over a ponderous quarto filled with colored prints of strange plants and animals," his curiosity grew into passionate desire to know; he hungered and thirsted after wisdom: in his letters to Varnhagen Von Guse, he says: "Man must will the great and good and leave the rest to fate." The same spirit appears sadly in the evening of his life when writing to another friend, he says: "I live joyless in my eighty-ninth year, because, of the much for which I have striven from my early youth, so little has been accomplished." He was born a noble—his companions were Kings and Princes. High position in the State and in society were within his reach—offices of trust and power were his for the asking, but he renounced them all for the love of letters and the pursuit of science; a life of selfish ease, indulgence and pleasure were before him, and he chose hardship, danger, privation and pain instead; wealth to satisfy cupidity itself he inherited, yet he expended it all in the publication of his works, and lived in his old age upon the pension of his King. In the morning of his life Wisdom met him and her voice cried aloud to him in the streets, and by her side, as by the side of religion itself, stood the angel of renunciation, with sad and tearful, yet triumphant eyes, who demanded, and not in vain, of him, "Sell all that thou hast, and give it to the poor;" "Leave father and mother, and wife and child, and come and be the disciple of truth." There is a religion in Science, and she has, too, her noble army of martyrs and confessors; if there be one among them whose devotion was purer and warmer than his, the world has not discovered it; if there be one who has taken upon him with more cheerful spirit, the bitter cross of poverty and toil let him come forth and wear the crown. Science has her battles and warfare, her soldiers, her patriots—victims and her conquering heroes. If there be one who has with more unfaltering spirit, though hungry and weary and sore-breasted, marched to her conflicts, or with braver hearts borne her banners against the hosts of ignorance, let him approach and take the laurel from his honored brow. In his consecration to the ideal of his life no difficulty arrested and no danger appalled him; over the seas, running the gauntlet of the enemy's ships; over ground shaken by earthquakes; through forests tenanted by savage beasts and venomenous reptiles; amid the pestiferous jungles of the Amazon and Orinoco; through sleet and rain in the dreadful pass of Quindia; up the narrow steep of Chimborazo, bordered with precipices, on ground crumbling at every step and literally tracking his way with his blood—this man never forget the vows which had passed his lips and was graven on his heart to love and to seek knowledge, "to will the great and the good, let destiny bring what it might"—and so, once more, showed to us, by contrast, how mean and trivial and transient are all earthly and material things, and how great and noble and imperishable—breath of God's breath and light of God's light—is the immortal spirit of man.

Second. His faculty of persistent labor. But genius is chiefly such by virtue of its faculty of persistent labor, and however high a man's ideal, however opulent his gifts, the necessity of toil to realize the former and to make the latter available, still remains. Old and true is the maxim, without great labor there is no excellence, and the life of Humboldt illustrates and exemplifies the maxim. His travels were not the jaunts of a pleasure seeking tourist—they were only made after careful study and preparation; they involved every sort of hardship, danger and toil; the descent into mines; the fording of rivers; the weary tramping on foot through heat and cold, through rain and hail and snow—manifold observations, requiring the most exact and skillful use of the best instruments, of the atmosphere, of the crust of the earth, of the stars, the collection of minerals, plants and animals, and the transportation of them for thousands of miles; intricate and difficult calculations; drawings and sketches when the objects themselves could not be preserved—he was in fact the father of scientific travel—the forerunner of Barth and Livingstone and Franklin, and of all our modern scientific explorations, with their marvelous additions to the domain of human knowledge. These travels occupied at least, taken altogether after their beginning in 1789, a third of his life, and carried him over the hights of the Andes and the steppes of Asia. The preparation and publication of these stores of knowledge occupied every moment of his remaining life not taken up by his duties as Directors of Mines and of Education, or as Ambassador, Chamberlain and Privy Counselor; so that we are not surprised that in the last year of his life even he worked steadily for fifteen hours a day. No expense of labor or money was spared to make these works worthy of himself, and of the world's acceptance, not less than $200,000 having been expended by him on their publication and illustration. In fact, his fortune and his life were surrendered that humanity might be richer. He toiled as they only can toil who hear the solemn admonition of divine voices, "Work while it is day, for the night cometh in which no man can work."

Third, The universality of his gifts and acquirements. We have said that Humboldt lived through a period prolific of great men. Except the ages of Pericles and of Shakspeare, perhaps there has been no other so rich in intellectual greatness and achievement. Humboldt's teachers were Campe, Gichorn, Werner, Heyne, Blumenbach, Von Buch, and Wildenow and Forster. His companions and fellow laborers it would weary me to name and you to hear of, but they number among them Goethe, Schiller, Cuvier, Scimondi, Thorwaisden, Schlegel. De Stael, Biat, Lussac, Arage. Berthollett, La Place, Bonpland, Vanquelin, Rose, Ehreberg, Agassiz Pitt, Scott, Beethoven, De Candolle and Brown. Doubtless among these men were many who, in his special department surpassed him, but no one who in all departments of human science had attained like eminence, not one to whom the whole domain of science was so familiar. To name his works, so original and so all embracing, is to relieve me of any charge of extravagance. His published works number not less than seventy volumes, many of them folios and quartos, and their subjects are astronomy, geography, botany, mineralogy, geology, meteoralogy, political economy, history, statistics, ethnology, language, chemistry, magnetism, electricity, laws, customs and manners of various nations, pictures of travels, volcanoes, earthquakes, comparative anatomy and zoology. His originality of view was equal to his faculty of acquisition, not content with gathering anew what others has collected, he labored successfully to contribute of his own store.

He has surveyed the whole field of human knowledge, saw clearly all its limitations, and indicated the avenues to new and precious developments. Physical geography owes its being to him. The geography and distribution of plants and animals was by him first scientificately investigated. The concordance of the geology of the old and new continents was first seriously attempted by him. The great school of comparative anatomy and physiology, of modern times, owes much to his sagacity. He gave new impulse to the study of meteorology and elevated it to the ranks of a science. To every student of his works many other instances will suggest themselves of his universal and prophetic insight, so that we are not surprised to hear the poet who alone stands side by side with Homer, Shakspeare and Milton—himself one of the most gifted and richly cultured men of any age or nation, speak in this wise of Humboldt: "Alexander von Humboldt has passed some hours with me this morning," said Goethe. "What a man he is. Long as I have known him he is continually astonishing me anew. I may say he has not his equal in knowledge, in living wisdom, and such many-sidedness I have found nowhere else. Wherever you call upon him, you find him at home, everywhere ready to lavish upon you the intellectual treasures he has amassed. He is like a fountain with many pipes, you need only to get a vessel to hold under it; on any side refreshing streams flow at a mere touch. He is to stay some days, and I shall feel, when he goes away, as if I had lived years during his stay."

If we further remark, that to all these solid acquirements, original discoveries and happy suggestions, Humboldt added the charm of an exquisite style and "touched nothing which he did not adorn," we can easily account for the spell which he exercised over his own generation and which he still exercises and will continue to exercise so long as genius and knowledge are honored among men. Perhaps in the whole range of literary labor, ancient and modern, there are no books of travel which are so truly pictures—no record of scientific investigation which so vividly reproduces, as if living and moving before us, all the scenes through which he journeyed, or so charm and constrain our attention even to abstruse speculations upon the facts which he recounts. I may be pardoned if I specify out of multitudes the description of the phosphorescence of tropic seas—the singularly acute explanation of the unceasing murmurous sound in tropic forests at noon-day—the magnificent portraiture of zone upon zone and climate upon climate, with all varieties of season and production, rising from tropic plains of palm, and arbaresent fern, and orange grove; through forests of oak and grassy terraces, and waving pine and brown lichen on the rock to the everlasting snow and ice of eternal winter, on the peaks of the Cordilleras, a picture which reminds one of that famous wizard, who

"To a northern King, at Christmas tide,
Such wondrous things did show,
That thro' one window men beheld the Spring,
And through another saw th Summer glow;
And through a third beheld the fruited vines a row,
While still unheard, but in its wonted way,
Piped the drear wind of that December day."

Fourth His Creative Faculty. The crowning intellectual gift of Alexander von Humboldt was, however, his creative faculty. He was essentially a poet. His fine imagination is apparent in all his works, but it first appears with the creative power which commands all hearts, in that which he himself styles the work of his life, "The Kosmos." In that immortal work which "had floated before him as an undefined vision from his youth," he makes the attempt to coordinate, and bring into one harmonious unity, all the phenomena of earth and heaven, cognizant, or as yet calculable by man; to show that from the simplest cell in the humbiest organism to the vast universe of worlds in the farthest heavens, and from the simplest movement which can be called life up to the sweetest song of the poet and the finest creation of the painter and sculptor—all are bound by a connection as close, continuous and enduring as the thought of God by which they live and move and have their being; they are not isolated—not independent, but interdependent and one. How Humboldt soars over every field of human knowledge and of speculation; with what a sweep as of angelic wings he rises to the highest heavens; with what an humble patience he plods in darksome caverns; with what fullness of knowledge; with what keenness of insight; with what profundity of thought and all comprehending power of reason, he gathers up all the fruit of his toilsome life to lay it upon the altar of his faith, in the divine power, unity and glory of nature, I cannot tell you of this. It can only be learned from his own lips; it must be traced in the pages of that work, which is in fact, a grand prose poem of the universe. But I can tell you that this faculty is the highest and noblest in man. That he possessed it in an extraordinary degree, and thereby became not simply a laborer in the quarry, but a builder and architect, who has taken the hewed stones and the carved marble lying scattered and lifeless, and built them into a fair and stately temple, whose foundations are on the earth, but whose pinnacles are in the sky. Let him who is so gifted use in diligent and reverent fear his high endowments, even though no other reward be his than the rapture of Kepler, when he had solved the mystery of the stars, and felt himself brought nearer to the Divinity, to whom he cried, "O, Almighty God! I think thy thoughts after Thee."

Fifth. His personal character. The most exalted intellectual gifts cannot and ought not, however, alone, secure the unreserved admiration of men. United with a depraved heart they become more or less a curse to their possessor and to the world. A bad man is not redeemable by talents, and gifts do not save from the curse of sin. But Humboldt was a good man as well as a great man. We have already noted his lavish expenditure in the publication of his works; but France and Germany are full to-day of living witnesses to his large hearted liberality in aiding every struggling student who applied to him, and in encouraging and stimulating merit and laudable ambition; genial and courteous in society, and keenly relishing its pleasures, he never became the slave of its vices or the victim of its follies; unaffected, kindly free from all ostentation, cursed by no mean jealousy or spite, he made many friends and lost none; his home relations to father, mother and brother are tender and beautiful, as that of Charles Lamb, and his afflicted sister, but with no such dreadful sorrow as fell to their lot on earth. His relations to his fatherland and people are quite as beautiful and impressive: spending much of his life in the atmosphere of courts, often the companion of Kings; and occupying a palace for years, he never abated one jot of his sturdy republicanism and never ceased to love, with a true, human, manly love, and not a fawning demagogue's, the struggling people, and labored on all fit occasions to advance the cause of liberal opinion and free institutions. He lay upon his dying bed and as through the opened windows the sun's light poured in, he said, "How glorious are those rays; they seem to beckon earth to heaven"—brief, unconscious expression of the aim and purpose of his whole life. No wonder that when the white haired old man walked under the lindens in the evening gloaming, all Berlin followed him with love and reverence, and that when they bore his lifeless form from the Dom Church back to the green slopes of Tegel to sleep once more by his mother's side, monarch and people stood uncovered and weeping, nor that to-day, in all lands, where genius and goodness are honored, where knowledge and wisdom are prized, where freedom and manliness are cherished—we should forget that we are English, or French, or German, and remember, only, in honoring Alexander von Humboldt, that we are members of that great Free Masonry of humanity, in which he was not only a fellow-craftsman and master-workman, but a most noble and worshipful High Priest, who sublimely realized his own belief "That man must will the great and good, and to destiny leave all the rest."

To R. W. District Deputy Pollock, and Brethern of Pittsburgh:

PHILADELPHIA, September 14.—Your telegram has been received. Let me, in reply to its salutation, give you this sentiment: The works of genius are treasures which the ages preserve for mankind. We honor one of the laborers, Humboldt, when we preserve his labors for the generation that come after us.

Most respectfully,
RICHARD VAUX, G. M. of Pennsylvania.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept., 14, 1869.

Charles Davis, Chief Engineer, Allegheny Park:

Greetings from Monument place, Allegheny Park, are cordially reciprocated, from the site of the Humboldt memorial in Fairmount Park. May the memory of the author of Cosmas be ever fresh as the green sward in our Parks.

JNO. C. CRESSON,
Chief Engineer.

[Received at 4 P. M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 14, 1869.

To Hon. Simon Drum, Mayor of Allegheny:

The streets of the Metropolis are crowded with those honoring the memory of him who wrote his autograph upon every surface of the physical world. Indeed, the purely scientific jubilee rivals any of recent political or historical import.

A. OAKEY HALL.

[Received at 6 P. M.]

THE WOODLAND FESTIVITIES.

Immediately upon the laying of the corner-stone and the conclusion of the accompanying ceremonies, the line reformed and returned to Pittsburgh, where trains, gaily decorated with flags and evergreens as for a festal day, were waiting to convey the vast company to the grove where the Volksfest was in progress. The trains during the remainder of the day conveyed thousands of persons to the scene, where the woodland festivities afforded pleasure and enjoyment to all. It was estimated there were fully eight thousand people on the grounds at the time General Grant arrived, and the distinguished visitor received a welcome which must have satisfied him of the hearty hospitality of the people with whom he had consented to spend the day. Although so many people were together and the excitement was so intense, there was no accident or rowdyism of any kind. The Volksfest, as the other ceremonies, passed off harmoniously. All enjoyed themselves and will have reason to remember with pleasant recollections the Volksfest which called them to Friendship Grove.

INCIDENTS &c.

Among the pleasant incidents which marked the occasion, was the presentation of a handsome silk flag to the Turner Cadets by Mr. John W. Pittock. The presentation occured before the procession started in the morning. Mr. W. D. Moore tended the gift in behalf of Mr. Pittock, and Mr. Wilson King received it in behalf of the Cadets.

During the time the photograph was being taken, and the addresses delivered, a salute was fired from Seminary Hill. A road had been cut up the hill on Monday in order that the cannon might be hauled up.

Both cities were surprisingly quiet throughout the entire day. We did not hear of a single arrest being made for disturbance of any kind. The day seemed to have been improved by all as one of relaxation and mirth, of festivity and rejoicing, and none were found willing to mar the general happiness.

And so the Humboldt Centennial, freighted with all its exciting but pleasant and memorable associations, has passed into history.

CHICAGO, September 14.—The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Baron Von Humboldt was appropriately celebrated to-day in this city, and at Springfield, Quincy and Aurora. Notwithstanding the rain which has prevailed, the ceremonies were largely participated in.

ALBANY, September 14.—The German military and civic societies to day celebrated the Humboldt Centennial Anniversary with a procession, orations and music.

MAUCH CHUNK, PA., September 14.—The Humboldt centennial was celebrated here to-day.
